Medial patellar luxation has been attributed mainly to congenital deformities of the lateral retinaculum. However, this condition has been reported in association with multiple systemic diseases. We present a case of medial patellar luxation in a patient with osteoarticular malformations who was on follow-up for bilateral congenital pseudoarthrosis of the tibia (CPT). We hypothesize that a congenital abnormality of the lateral patellar retinaculum contributed to the progression of medial patellar luxation in this patient.Q: Batch or command file using variables and arguments So I'm trying to make a script, where there is a command that is made to a file. The command contains variables, so that the script knows what to add, and also arguments that are passed to the script. Here is the code I have so far: setlocal EnableDelayedExpansion for %%i in (%batchfile%) do (set "var1=%%i" set "var2=%%~nxi" call set "%var1%%var2%") pause This will work perfectly fine when the script is called like this: set "batchfile=C:\Users\someuser\Documents\somefolder\something.bat" somecommand.exe -arg1 -arg2 somefile.txt However, it won't
